2. Executive Summary

The Consultation Paper deals with the review of two sets of technical standards on passport notification, developed by the EBA in accordance with the mandate set out in Articles 35, 36 and 39 of Directive 2013/36/EU as subsequently amended, and enacted by the European Commission under Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No 1151/2014 and Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No 926/2014.

Since their entry into force, the two Commission Regulations have significantly contributed to the convergence of supervisory practices across the EU, smoothing passport notifications by credit institution and deepening the internal market. Practice however has shown the need for clarification as to the information to be provided by credit institutions in order to allow a better assessment of the passport notification and the credit institution's arrangements to carry on the planned activities. The review of the two Regulations therefore aims at improving the quality and consistency of information to be provided by a credit institution notifying their home competent authorities when it intends to open a branch or provide services in another Member State, as well as the communication between home and host authorities.

The amendments focus on the quality and clarity of the information to be provided by the credit institutions to their home competent authorities in the passport notification, as well as to the communication between home and host authorities. Such amendments relate to both the information requirements set out in Regulation 1154/2014 and to the forms and templates contained in the Annexes to Regulation 926/2014. The most material changes focus on the request to the credit institution to indicate in a manner as accurate as possible the intended start date of each activity for which the notification is submitted, rather than just of the core business activities as currently envisaged by the Regulations. Such change applies to both the branch and services the passport notification. This amendment aims at allowing the competent authorities a more accurate and complete picture of institutions' planned activities and its arrangements to carry them on, and it is considered a very relevant piece of information to allow competent authorities to perform a complete and accurate assessment of the notification.

With regard to the establishment of branches, additional granularity has been included in relation to the financial plan. Assumptions underpinning forecasts are now expressly requested to be included in the notification.

In respect of the branch planned termination, an express requirement of a statement by an external auditor that the credit institution no longer holds deposits nor repayable funds from the public through the branch has been included in the communication in order to enhance factual certainty and reliability.

Furthermore, in order to improve the efficiency of communication between the credit institution and its home authority as well as between home and host authorities, some minor amendments have also been made in the forms and templates such as update of legal references; clearer differentiation –applicable to branches only- between first notification and notification of changes, addition of the credit institution’s national reference code as available in the credit institution register maintained by the EBA, and of the Legal Entity Identifier (LEI) where available, indication of the competent department and relevant email address.

Next steps

This Consultation paper is published for a 3 months consultation period. The revised draft RTS and ITS will be submitted to the European Commission for endorsement before being published in the Official Journal of the European Union.

3. Background and rationale

3.1 Introduction and reasons for the review

Directive 2013/36/EU on access to the activity of credit institutions and the prudential supervision of credit institutions and investment firms, as subsequently amended, sets out requirements concerning the exercise by credit institutions of the freedom of establishment and the freedom to provide services and mandates the EBA to develop regulatory technical standards (RTS) specifying the information to be notified pursuant to Articles 35, 36 and 39 of that Directive. The same provisions also mandate the EBA to develop implementing technical standards (ITS) in order to establish standard forms, templates and procedures for notifications performed pursuant to Articles 35, 36 and 39.

The EBA has delivered such mandates by developing and submitting to the European Commission for endorsement both the Final Draft RTS and the Final Draft ITS on passport notifications on 13 December 2013¹. The European Commission subsequently endorsed the RTS by enacting Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No 1151/2014 and the ITS by enacting Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No 926/2014.

As recognized by the EBA Report on the peer review on the RTS published in July 2018² ('Report'), the two Regulations have significantly improved the convergence of supervisory practices and smoothed the procedures for passport notifications, providing an important contribution to the effectiveness of the internal market. The Report has also identified several areas of desired modifications to the technical standards that would improve the quality and consistency of passport notifications and the ability of competent authorities to assess these. Upon the competent authorities' request, the EBA has therefore decided in accordance with Article 29(d) of Regulation (EU) 1093/2010 establishing the EBA, as subsequently amended, to revise both Commission Regulation 1151/2014 and Commission Regulation 926/2014, with a view to updating the information requirements to be notified by the credit institution to the home competent authority. The ultimate goal of the technical standards review is to better clarify credit institutions' information requirements in order to facilitate the accuracy, comprehensiveness and consistency of supervisory assessment of both branch and services passport notifications. The amended binding technical standards also set out some minor drafting amendments aimed at improving the efficiency of communication with the home authority and between home and host authorities. The Consultation Paper at hand presents the amended RTS and ITS, reflecting these modifications.

3.2 Material amendments

The material amendments focus on the quality and clarity of the information to be provided by the credit institutions to their home competent authority in the passport notification. They relate to both the information requirements set out in Regulation 1154/2014 and to the forms and templates contained in the Annexes to Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No 926/2014.

With regard to both branch and services notification, the following material amendments have been introduced:

- Requirement to indicate the intended start date of each passported activities, for both the branch and the services passport notification, in a manner as accurate as possible. Unlike the version currently in force, the draft amended technical standards require the specification of the 'intended start date' for each activity for which the notification is submitted rather than just for the core business activities. Practical experience has shown that the version in force, by allowing a sort of 'global' notification for all activities that the EU legal framework consents to be passported, whilst allows credit institution to reach efficiencies by submitting only one notification, does not allow the competent authorities to carry out the comprehensive and accurate assessment they are required to for each activity that is included in the notification. This amendment, therefore, aims at providing competent authorities with a more accurate and complete picture of institutions' planned activities, and of their arrangements to carry them out and it is considered a very relevant piece of information to allow them performing an accurate assessment of the notification. Such proposed amendments are set out in the RTS and in Annexes I and V to the ITS.

With regard to the branch notification only, the following amendments have been introduced:

- Express differentiation between the first notification and the notification of changes in the branch particulars. In case of notification of changes, the draft emended Annex I to the ITS expressly requires the credit institution to indicate only the information that has changed. In case of cessation of an activity previously notified, credit institutions have to indicate the date where the provision of a previously notified activity has ceased to be carried out.
- Additional granularity in relation to the financial plan in section 2.3.1 of Annex I. Assumptions of forecasts are expressly requested.
- Express requirement, in case of communication of the branch planned termination, of a statement by an external auditor that the credit institution no longer holds deposits nor repayable funds from the public through the branch has been included in order to enhance transparency and the general interest of safety of deposits (Annex IV). This requirement replicates at the branch level the approach commonly followed by supervisors in the case of credit institutions' notification of voluntary withdrawal of the authorisation.

With regard to the communication of own funds from the home to the host authority, Annex III has been amended to include the communication of the relevant data on own funds (amount, composition and requirements) at both individual and consolidated level, the latter where applicable and available to the home authority. By this amendment, the pursued objective is the increase the efficiency and cooperation between home and host authorities.

3.3 Other amendments

As part of the overall goal to improve the clarity and quality of the information in order to enable a better assessment of the notification by the competent authorities, draft amended Annex I and Annex V expressly require the indication of the Legal Entity Identifier ('LEI') – where available – together with national reference code of the credit institution.

Some minor amendments have also been made such as update of legal references to services to be rendered in accordance with the Directive 2014/65/EU on markets in financial instruments and Directive 2015/2366/EU on payment services in the internal market and addition of some information items in Annexes II, IV and VI relating to the communication by the credit institution with the relevant competent authority(ies), namely, the name of the home authority department and reference email.

6. Accompanying documents

6.1 Draft cost-benefit analysis / impact assessment

As per Article 16(2) of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010 (EBA Regulation), any guidelines and recommendations developed by the EBA shall be accompanied by an Impact Assessment (IA) which analyses ‘the potential related costs and benefits’.

This analysis presents the IA of the main policy options included in this Consultation Paper on the changes proposed to (i) the RTS on the information to be notified when exercising the right of establishment and the freedom to provide services, supplementing Directive 2013/36/EU, and (ii) the ITS with regard to standard forms, templates and procedures for notifications relating to the exercise of the right of establishment and the freedom to provide services according to Directive 2013/36/EU.

The IA is high level and qualitative in nature.

A. Problem identification

Pursuant to Article 35(5) of Directive 2013/36/EU, technical standards have been adopted in 2014 to provide additional information to institutions and competent authorities for the process and information needed when an institution exercises the right of establishment and the freedom to provide services. Specifically, the existing RTS and ITS lay down the information that a credit institution has to provide to the home competent authority when it intends to open a branch or to provide services in another Member State, and the communication to be provided in turn by the home competent authority to the host competent authority.

The practical application of these technical standards since 2014 has been assessed in a peer review report conducted by the EBA and published in July 2018.⁹ The report identifies several areas of desired modifications to the technical standards that would improve the quality and consistency of passport notifications and the ability of competent authorities to assess these. The consultation paper at hand presents the amended RTS and ITS.

B. Policy objectives

The draft modified RTS and ITS (including Annexes) in this consultation paper aim at improving the quality and consistency of information provided by an institution notifying their home authorities when it intends to open a branch or provide services in another Member State. Further, the draft amended technical standards aim at providing competent authorities with a more complete and in-depth picture of the institutions' planning and assumptions, thereby allowing enhanced judgement by and dialogue with competent authorities.

C. Baseline scenario

Section C. presents the main policy options discussed and the decisions made during the amendments to the technical standards. Advantages and disadvantages, as well as potential costs and benefits of the policy options and the preferred options resulting from this analysis are assessed below.

The changes proposed to the technical standards can be broadly categorised into two groups: one representing minor changes, including marginal content, legal references updates and other editing changes, and another group containing more substantial changes related to the content of the information competent authorities would receive. The policy options considered as part of the drafting and outlined below are structured along this categorisation.

Additional information and details of mostly minor nature

Option 1a: Add further information items, clarifications on existing items and other minor changes throughout the information that has to be provided by institutions and communicated between home and host competent authorities.

Option 1b: Do not make any changes and keep the technical standards as they are.

The EBA Report on the Peer Review of Passport Notification provided crucial insights into the practical experiences of information sharing as part of the process of passport notifications. The outcome of the peer review suggests that i) information provided by institutions is not always consistent across notifications in terms of the level of detail provided, ii) certain information items specifically mentioned in new regulations are not included in the information templates of the current ITS Annexes, iii) practical use and application of the technical standards varies, iv) template formats and labelling could be clarified.

These findings represent factors that may impact the consistency of the information provided by institutions and the ability of competent authorities to make as comprehensive and informed an assessment as possible. Whilst changes and additions to the technical standards and information templates may require some minor additional short-term costs for institutions and competent authorities, these initial transitional costs are assessed to be outweighed by the benefits that changes will bring to the sharing of information.

Therefore, Option 1a has been assessed as the preferred option and the amended technical standards propose additional details and information of mostly minor nature. Specifically, it is proposed to:

- a) Include more information on the legal entities in the Annexes (national reference code available in the credit institutions register maintained by the EBA and LEI code) to improve consistency and usability of information;
- b) Update specific legal references to ensure alignment with other updated legal texts;
- c) Format certain information tables (eg. additional headings) in the ITS Annexes to improve clarity for users;
- d) Add to the list of services and activities to be considered by the institution in Annex I and V to align with MiFID II (Directive 2014/65/EU) and with PSD2 Annex (Directive (EU) 2015/2366);
- e) Explicitly differentiate in Annex I between new notifications and changes to existing notifications to formalise current practices;
- f) Own funds requirements and composition to be communicated from the home to the host at both the institution and consolidated level (the latter only where applicable and available to the home authority);
- g) In cases of branch closures, institutions to include a statement by an external auditor stating that the credit institution no longer holds deposits or other repayable funds through the branch (Annex IV), to align with existing credit institution's authorisation withdrawal practices.

Making these amendments, the technical standards will allow for more consistency in the information sharing and add clarity for both institutions and competent authorities. The changes will further align the technical standards with evolving regulation and accommodate the need signalled by competent authorities to align the information templates with current practices.

Additional information items with more material content implications: Indication on start date for planned activities

Option 2a: Annex I, Table 2 to be amended to include intended start date for each activity planned to be performed by a branch, not only for the core activities.

Option 2b: Annex I, Table 2 to include information on the intended start date for core activities only (status quo).

In the current versions of the RTS and ITS, when exercising the right of establishment and the freedom to provide services, institutions need to specify the activities they intend to carry out through the branch in the host Member State. Further, they need to indicate which of those activities constitute the core business and what the intended start dates of these core business activities are.

The intended start date in turn provides competent authorities with a more concrete view of the status and progress of an institution's plans: being able to provide an intended start date implies an institution's planning process for an activity is at a mature state. Only providing information on this for the core activities, potentially leaves out a substantial and valuable piece of information. Access to the intended start date of each activity for which the notification is submitted, rather than just for the core business, would allow competent authorities a more accurate and complete picture of institutions' planned activities and it is considered a very relevant piece of information to allow competent authorities to perform an accurate assessment of the notification.

Hence, it has been assessed as the preferred Option to extend the information on the intended start date to each planned activity, instead of limiting this to only to the core activities. Option 2a has been chosen as the preferred option.

Additional information items with more material content implications: underlying assumptions to be shared

Option 3a: As part of 'other information' in Annex I, institutions to provide additional information on the underlying assumptions behind their B/S and P&L forecasts.

Option 3b: Keep Annex I, the 'other information' section unchanged.

The section 'other information' as part of Annex I in the current version of the ITS requires institutions to submit a financial plan containing forecasts for the balance sheet and the profit and loss account, covering a period of three years. In order for competent authorities to fully assess the credibility of the plan and concluding from this, the prospect of the intended opening of the branch, access to more detail on the financial plans is crucial. Full and complete validation of an institution's plan can only be performed if more granular data is available to the competent authority, including the underlying assumptions.

Therefore, Option 3a has been chosen as the preferred option and it is proposed that institutions should submit more detailed information as part of Annex I, 'other information'. Whilst again this will lead to some additional costs to institutions and competent authorities in terms of the provision and assessment of information, this is clearly compensated for by the benefits of competent authorities' improved understanding and ability to make informed judgements.

D. Conclusions

It can be argued that some of the changes, in particular those considered under Options 2 and 3, somewhat increase the reporting burden on institutions. Nevertheless, it has been assessed that the changes would greatly improve the assessment process and its quality, enhancing dialogue and competent authorities' ability to perform their assessment during the notification process, thereby effectively contributing to a sounder and safer banking system in Europe.

The proposed changes further reflect and address the findings from last year's peer review report and are considered to greatly improve the process of notifications relating to the exercise of the right of establishment and the freedom to provide services.
