

Sandra Burggraf

Sandra Burggraf is responsible for leading the Prudential and Risk work for the FIA European Principal Traders Association (FIA EPTA) based in Amsterdam. FIA EPTA is a key stakeholder for the European Banking Authority as the representative of the leading independent market-making firms across Europe that act as essential liquidity providers.

Sandra has more than 25 years of experience in the financial sector and is co-founder of a successful investment firm. She also is an independent non-executive director and a member of the risk committee at ICE Futures Europe, a leading derivatives exchange.

Over the years, Sandra has actively contributed as an industry stakeholder to the policy process, engaging with policy makers and regulators in developing sound prudential and risk regulations, including responding to many consultation papers, regulatory technical standards and guidelines (e.g., relating to IFR/D, SREP guidelines and DORA).

Sandra brings a diversity of perspectives and technical expertise that will complement the composition of the EBA Banking Stakeholder Group and contribute to the development of the EBA's policy work.

Sandra is certified as a Chartered Accountant (ICAEW) and Chartered Financial Advisor (CFA). She holds a master's degree in management from SKEMA business school (France).
