

Riina Salpakari

Riina Salpakari is the Head of Public Affairs for Finland and Capital at Nordea Group. She has worked in Nordea since 2016, having previously held roles in the Finnish Financial Stability Authority, the Finnish Ministry of Finance, and the European Central Bank. Her core areas of competence include capital requirements, the macroprudential framework, credit risk management and models, recovery and resolution, deposit guarantee schemes, bank fraud, and the treatment of ESG factors in the capital framework. She advises Nordea Group's senior leadership on capital and credit related regulations as well as matters related to the Banking Union, and their impact on the Group. She also represents Nordea in industry bodies and external fora in the Nordics and across the EU, with focus on Finnish banking regulation as well as micro- and macroprudential requirements. She has previously held various project management and leadership positions, including driving Nordea's implementation of credit risk requirements in the Banking Package, acting as a project manager for Nordea's internal model applications, and leading a team of regulatory experts in Nordea's risk management function.
