

Pat McArdle:

Pat McArdle is a former Chief Economist and was also a public servant in the Irish Department of Finance and the EU Commission, specialising in fiscal and monetary affairs. His experience of the financial services industry includes membership of the Irish Stock Exchange, compliance officer and director in a stockbroking firm, director of UCITs and MiFID finance companies and Pensioner Trustee. Mr McArdle also served as Secretary to the EFFAS European Bond Commission and was a Member of the Consultative Industry Panel to the former Irish Financial Regulator. He chairs the International Institute of European Affairs Economists Group and is a former chairman of EMAC, the Economic and Monetary Affairs Committee of the European Banking Federation. He has authored several publications on EMU, most recently a book on Banking Union.